2. Fill in voting opinion or casts.

For accumulative voting proposals, fill in the number of votes cast on a particular candidate. Shareholders of a listed company should vote subject to the maximum number of votes they have under each proposal. In the event where shareholders voted in excess of their entitled number of votes, or that they have voted in respect of extra candidates in a margin election, the votes cast in respect of the relevant proposal shall be deemed invalid. If shareholders do not agree with a candidate, they may vote nil on the candidate.

This general meeting of shareholders adopts the accumulative voting system for elections and adopts the method of equal election. An example of the number of votes to which a shareholder is entitled under each proposal is as follows:

①The number of votes on a candidate for non-independent director (for example, equal election is adopted for proposal 1 and there are 3 candidates) to which a shareholder is entitled = the total number of shares with voting rights represented by the shareholder x 3.

Shareholders may cast their votes on the 3 candidates for non-independent directors at their discretion, but the total number of votes cast shall not exceed the number of votes to which they are entitled.

Shareholders may cast their votes on the 3 candidates for independent directors at their discretion, but the total number of votes cast shall not exceed the number of votes to which they are entitled.

3. Where shareholders vote on the general proposal, they are deemed to have expressed the same opinion on all other proposals other than those by cumulative voting.

In case of repeated voting of the general proposal and sub-proposal on the same proposal, the first valid vote shall prevail. If the shareholder votes on the sub-proposal first and then on the general proposal, the voting opinions of the sub-proposal that has been voted on shall prevail, and other non-voted sub-proposals are subject to the opinion of the general proposal; if the shareholder votes on the general proposal first and then the sub-proposal, the vote on the general proposal shall prevail.
